DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1 and 3 are presented for examination.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

- i. page 8, line 4, change "momententarily" to -- momentarily--

Appropriate correction is required.

Drawings

3. Figure 1 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). Corrected drawings in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Davis (US Patent No. 4,422,039 and Davis hereinafter).

6. As to claim 1, Davis discloses a circuit for detecting an electric current comprising:

a current transformer (col. 2, lines 49-51);

a buffer(col. 3, lines 1-3);

a diode configured to detect a peak value of an input current, the diode comprising an anode connected to a secondary winding of the current transformer at an input side of the circuit and a cathode connected to the buffer at an output side of the circuit (36-2, 48, D1, 52, Figure; col. 2, lines 55-58);

a capacitor having one end connected to the cathode of the diode and the other end connected to a ground potential and configured to output a detected peak value of the input current via the buffer at the secondary, winding of the current transformer (C2, Figure; col. 2, lines 55-58);

Art Unit: 2858

a zener diode connected between the diode and the buffer, the zener diode comprising a cathode connected to both the cathode of the diode and an input terminal of the buffer, and an anode connected to a ground potential (D2, Figure; col. 3, lines 2-5)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Davis in view of Goodwin (US Patent No. 4,847,554 and Goodwin hereinafter).

Although the system disclosed by Davis shows substantial features of the claimed invention (discussed in the paragraphs above), it fails to disclose:

a shunt resistor having one end connected to both the cathode of the diode and the input terminal of the buffer and the other end connected to a ground potential [claim 3].

Nonetheless, these features are well known in the art and would have been an obvious modification of the system disclosed by Davis as evidenced by Goodwin.

Goodwin discloses a current measure and compensation system having:

Art Unit: 2858

a shunt resistor having one end connected to both the cathode of the diode and the input terminal of the buffer and the other end connected to a ground potential [claim 3] (26, 46, Fig. 1, col. 6, lines 3-14).

Given the teaching of Goodwin, a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention would have readily recognized the desirability and advantages of modifying Davis by employing the well known or conventional features of current sensing, such as disclosed by Goodwin, in order to efficiently monitor current for current measurement purposes in the Davis apparatus.
